Ring road one year after deal: Premier

► Nenshi says 'very small gap' left between negotiating Tsuu T'ina ring road parties ► No construction timeline available for five Alberta Transportation proposals

JEREMY NOLAS
@METRONWS.CA

Shovels could break ground on the southwest leg of Calgary's ring road one year after any deal is struck with the Tsuu T'ina Nation, Alberta's premier said Thursday.

Speaking in Calgary, Ed Stelmach said he would like to get a deal approved to build the road through the reserve before his term ends this fall.

"This infrastructure is needed," he said. "I constantly hear about the backlog of traffic in the southern part of Calgary. There are very few options left. Let's just get on with it."

Stelmach's comments came one day after Tsuu T'ina Chief Sandford Big Plume declared he will return to his people to discuss reopening negotiations on a $275-million deal they voted down in 2009.

The possibility of getting construction underway next year is in line with the wishes of weary commuters in Calgary's deep south, said Michael Piper, director of community affairs for the Shawnessy Com-

"The sooner the better is the consensus from Shawnessy's standpoint, and I think that would ring true everywhere around here," he said.

But Trent Bancarz, spokesperson for Alberta Transportation, cautioned that any deal involving Tsuu T'ina land would require federal government approval, which could take up to two years.

Alberta Transportation has been hosting open houses recently to outline five other proposals for the ring road, but Piper said no timelines for construction have been made available. "I think what residents want to hear is it's starting and it will take (this number of months)," he said.

► Council to discuss issue Monday ► Secondary-suite legalization was lost in a tie at a recent land use planning and transportation committee meeting ► Survey conducted by Zinc Research for University of Calgary Students' Union ► Company did polls for Nenshi during municipal election campaign

Aldermen won't be swayed by citizen survey

Despite the results of a recently released survey showing strong support for secondary suites, at least two aldermen are holding strong on their opposition.

Ald. Dale Hodges said the results didn't surprise him and previous surveys have had similar outcomes.

In Hodges' Ward 1, 79 per cent of the respondents said they were comfortable with their neighbours building secondary suites.

However, Hodges said what he's heard from his constituents does not align with the survey.

"You have to pay attention to what a number of the public want, not just a select group of the public or people garnering public opinion," he said.

"To boil it down to that black and white an issue is kind of oversimplifying things."

Ald. Ray Jones echoed Hodges in saying he doesn't know the specifics of how the survey was conducted so he's hesitant to trust the results.

"I can't go by somebody else's survey because I have no idea of how they weighted the questions or how they worded the questions," he said.

A total of 74 per cent of respondents in Jones' ward said they support secondary suites in their neighbourhood.

"I don't know where these 74 per cent of people are because our phones don't indicate that at all."

On the cusp of city council making a decision on the legalization of secondary suites, a new survey has emerged showing Calgaryans are in favour of the dwellings.

The survey commissioned by the University of Calgary Students' Union showed 75 per cent of the 1,585 respondents surveyed online and via phone said they support secondary suites in their neighbourhood.

Seven wards were targeted to be surveyed based on

"All the data that we've got says that this is what constituents want. If they say it's because their neighbourhoods don't want it, well all the evidence we have says that's false."

MAYOR NAHEED NENSHI

Nenshi still keen on suites

Mayor Naheed Nenshi said if his colleagues vote against secondary suites, they are blatantly ignoring their constituents.

Nenshi has been a longtime advocate for secondary suites, and this issue was a main plank in his municipal election platform.

the aldermen who have vocally opposed secondary suites or have been indecisive. Those wards were 1, 2, 5, 6, 10, 13 and 14.

The poll indicated 77 per cent would accept their next-door neighbour building a legal suite, subject to regulations, and 85 per cent agreed secondary suites make Calgary a more affordable place to live.

"At the end of the day, I always thought that a lot of these aldermen weren't taking a position that reflects the values of their constituents," said Hardave Birk of the Students' Union, "and our poll clearly solidifies that."

SEX CASE

High-risk offender will stay in jail

A high-risk sex offender will serve nearly three more years behind bars after pleading guilty in Calgary court Thursday.

Keegan Spearchief reportedly pleaded guilty to assault and voyeurism and was sentenced to three and a half years minus time served.

The charges stemmed from an August 2010, incident in southeast Calgary.

Police responding to reports of an assault say they were confronted by Spearchief, who was armed with a knife and challenged them to open fire.

At the time, Spearchief was out on bail and had been outfitted with a GPS monitoring bracelet.

Homeless get $9M boost

Alberta's 10-year plan to end homelessness received a boost of $9 million Thursday as officials said the initiative is meeting — and exceeding — its goals.

The funds will bring the province's investment in the plan to $54 million, allowing underprivileged individuals to both obtain and maintain housing, said Premier Ed Stelmach. "This investment is a renewal of our resolve to help people break free of the cycle of poverty and chronic homelessness," he said.

Calgarian George Whittick attributes his success to the province's housing-first approach. He recalled a rough life on the streets while trying to cope with alcoholism.

Even after going through a 90-day rehab program last year, $9M Alberta's $9 million boost will bring its investment in the homelessness fight to $54 million. Ed Stelmach hopes it helps the underprivileged.

Whittick said he still found himself in an unfavourable situation living in shelters — that is, until he was introduced to the province's Keys To Recovery program.

"Since then, it's been one goal after another," said, Whittick, who now has his own home, complete with a TV and furniture.

"I meet with counselors three times a week, which helps me because I'm not left alone. It helps me continue my sobriety."

Extra costs delay farmers' market

METRO FILE

► High hopes: Ken Aylesworth, general manager of the Calgary Farmers' Market, had said in August the official launch date would be Feb. 4.

► Budget leapt from $5.4 million to $6 million, says general manager

JEREMY NOLAIS
@METRONEWS.CA

The Calgary Farmers' Market will open by the end of the month — but it hasn't come without a few hiccups, said the general manager.

The new location for the market formerly housed in the Currie Barracks was originally slated to open in early February and then again on Friday.

But extra costs and poor weather have led to delays, said Ken Aylesworth.

"We were renovating 55,000 square feet," he said, "and in doing so we were actually connecting two buildings together.... We're dealing with a building built in the late '40s, early '50s. We had to upgrade electrical, do extra plumbing."

All of that has forced Aylesworth to refinance and push the budget from $5.4 million to more than $6 million.

None of the vendors have been asked to contribute extra cash, he said.

Poor weather has also led to construction delays, specifically with some welding work required on the new building's roof.

"We're about 90 per cent done, it's just some spit and some polish," Aylesworth said.

Vendors, meanwhile, are busy making last-minute adjustments to their booths and are eagerly anticipating the grand opening.

"It's like when you have a baby and you're waiting for it to be born," said Brenda Jenkyns, owner of Going Nuts.

"It seems like forever, but once it's there you just forget all about it."

Brian Plunkett, owner of Blu Seafood & Market, shared similar thoughts.

"It would be great to be in there to get it going, but as I look at the progress of the market now I see it's coming along really well," he said.

"It's going to be a great place when it finally opens."

Calgary woman recounts horror

► Ying Tang describes the attack from her estranged husband ► James Bing Jun Louie pleads not guilty in the deaths of the couple's children

A Calgary woman fought back tears as she recalled finding her daughter dead and then having to fight for her own life as she was choked by her estranged husband.

"I was fighting and kicking and fell on the floor," Ying Tang recounted Thursday, her voice fraught with emotion. "I thought, at least I fought with my last breath."

A judge began hearing the case this week and on Thursday, Tang took the stand to give her version of what happened on the night of Nov. 27, 2009.

On the snowy night in question, Tang said she became worried when she

Family Crises

Tang painted a picture of a family that was crumbling in the time leading up to the killings.

► Tang, an engineer by trade, had told her husband she wanted a separation after he found emails from another man was unable to get in touch with her children. She called 911, but the trial has already heard police weren't sent.

She arrived home and found the house "pitch dark," she said.

"I just knew something and accused her of being unfaithful.

► The sole earner of the family, she said she told Louie he could have the house, which was paid for, and their bank accounts. She said she also offered to pay spousal support.

► "I just want to be out of this marriage," she testified.

was wrong."

Tang said she went upstairs and turned on the lights and saw the door to her daughter's room slightly ajar.

"I saw Jane lying there. Her head ... her face was facing the door. I thought she was asleep," Tang said softly.

Tang came out of the room and saw her husband across the hall. There was a flash of yellow rope behind him.

She said she thinks her husband was surprised by her arrival at home. He put the rope around her neck and dragged her into the master bedroom. She fell to the floor as she tried to fight him off.

The nightmare came to an end when Calgary police officers arrived, responding to her second 911 call.

"It was the best voice I had heard. It was a human voice," said Tang.

Festival to display queer arts scene

A visual arts display, followed by a two-hour cabaret-style presentation and a dance party closing will make up Saturday's Q the Arts, Calgary's first Queer Arts & Culture Festival.

The single-evening event, organized by Fairytale Presentation Society, will feature 11 multidisciplinary artists from across Canada.

Organizer Jessica Dillard said the goal was to highlight artists who identify themselves as LGBTQ (lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, two-spirit and questioning).

Calgary artist Julie Orton will be performing two monologues as part of the festival.

"I think a festival like this is not only a long time coming but is really essential for not only the Calgary queer community but for the Calgary arts community," said Orton.

Tickets can be bought at www.fairytalefilmfest.com for $20 or for $25 at the door. The event will be held at the Arrata Opera Centre, and doors will open at 7:00 p.m. CAROLINA NOVOTNY

Countdown to Barlow closure

► Barlow Trail closes April 3 ► City still in negotiations with Calgary Airport Authority for tunnel ► The detour affects hotels, airport staff

For Jill Dalrymple referring to the upcoming closure of Barlow Trail north of McKnight Boulevard as an inconvenience is a major understatement — she is moving because of it.

Barlow Trail, the busy corridor that shuttles northbound commuters from McKnight Boulevard to the airport, closes April 3 to allow construction of the new airport runway. All southern access to the airport will be cut off.

Dalrymple currently lives in Rundle and works for Air Canada as a baggage handler. Barlow Trail is a quick route for her to the airport, but now Dalrymple has to go around, using one of only two alternate routes available to drivers: Deerfoot Trail or 36th Street, to access the airport.

Neither of these two options really appeals to her.

"It is going to double the distance I drive to work and in bad weather 36th (Street) can't even be used. There are no lines on that road. It's bumpy and full of holes."

Ald. Jim Stevenson, a longtime proponent of the airport tunnel, is candid about the effects the closure will have on traffic.

"It's going to be a mess traffic-wise. It will be chaos," said Stevenson.

But Calgary commuters aren't the only ones affected.

Curtis Fernets, manager of the Sheraton Cavalier just off Barlow, estimates a round trip to the airport will take shuttles 50 minutes instead of the current 30, and expects transport costs to double.

In a previous interview on Feb. 8, Fernets, also a member of the Airport Trail Access Committee, estimated this cost increase would be $2 million per year between the 23 hotels south of McKnight.

Estimating her commute will go from eight minutes to 30 or 40 minutes, Dalrymple opted to move in with her boyfriend in Coventry instead of dealing with the detour. Though his place is technically further from

YYC

- The closure will also affect McCall Way, which will close north of 78th Avenue. Though the road will still allow for access to the WestJet building and other businesses, it will no longer connect to the terminal.
- The construction will add a new 4,270-metre runway to the airport and is expected to be completed by mid-2014.
- In 2010, YYC saw 12.6 million passengers, an increase of 3.7 per cent over 2009.

the airport, the commute is shorter.

Freezing their assets

ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

► Government pitches law allowing Canada to seize tyrants' wealth here ► Hopes for quick passage

Canada is taking aim at dictators with legislation that would allow the government to freeze the assets of people tied to corrupt regimes like Libya.

Foreign Affairs Minister Lawrence Cannon announced the Freezing Assets of Corrupt Regimes Act on Thursday, saying Canada wants to support all countries that shun tyranny and embrace democracy.

"Recent developments in the Middle East and North Africa have shown the world how important it is to have legislation in place to allow for a quick response to ensure that foreign dictators cannot hide their ill-gotten wealth in our country," he said.

The legislation would allow the federal government to quickly freeze

Tunisian ties

Several family members of ousted Tunisian president Zine El-Abidine Ben Ali's are believed to be in Canada after fleeing an uprising in January.

► Montreal mansion

Ben Ali's son-in-law Mohamed Sakher El Materi was listed as the owner of a $2.5-million mansion in Montreal.

► Target of protesters

Since the uprising started in Tunisia, the house has been repeatedly vandalized by protesters.

and seize assets of despots and members of corrupt regimes upon official request.

The new Tunisian government formally asked Canada last month to freeze the family assets of ousted president Zine El-Abidine Ben Ali. But Ottawa has said it was hampered by several legal factors.

Unlike the freeze on Libyan assets this month, there had been no UN sanctions levied on Tunisia after the uprising there.

"Where you have a situation where it is not in the international interest to punish a particular regime, but you are trying to assist, I believe this will be one more tool," Justice Minister Rob Nicholson said, adding the government is talking with the opposition parties to get the legislation passed quickly.

"I'm hoping that there will be a consensus that this is a good idea."

CONTRACTS

Study: Feds exceed $1B annually on outsourcing

A new study is urging the federal government to take a critical look at its outsourcing costs if it wants to get serious about spending controls.

The study by the Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives says the "growing and concentrated nature" of outsourcing has created a shadow public service that is immune to the hiring practices and transparency requirements of the real public service.

The study's author, research associate David Macdonald, says personnel outsourcing costs have risen 79 per cent in five years.

Macdonald says while federal departments had their budgets capped, spending on outside consultants has not been touched and exceeds $1 billion annually.

Contractors used to be hired for a week or so to do some filing, he says, but now they are being hired on contract for years at a time.

Four large departments — Public Works and Government Services Canada, National Defence and Canadian Forces, Human Resources and Skills Development, and Public Safety and Emergency Preparedness — account for half of all federal government outsourcing.

Macdonald says their payrolls increased only nine per cent since 2005-06, but their personnel outsourcing costs exploded, rising 100 per cent.

'Harper': New name of Ottawa's political game

Treasury Board to ensure use of PM's surname in communications

It's official: Stephen Harper rules. And lest anyone forgets, a directive went out to public servants late last year that "Government of Canada" in federal communications should be replaced by the words "Harper Government."

Public servants from four different line departments told The Canadian Press the instruction came from "the Centre" — meaning the Prime Minister's Office and the Privy Council Office that serves the prime minister.

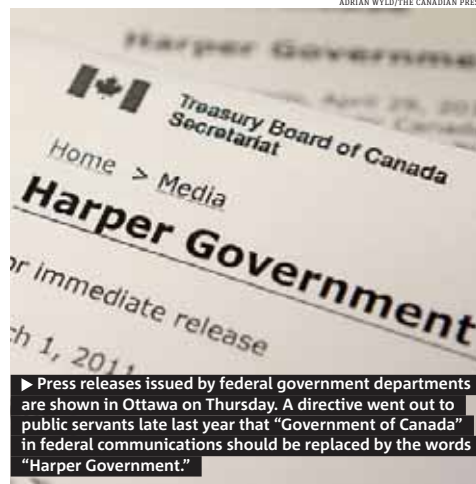

None would speak on the record for fear of retribution. It's a well-grounded concern given the treatment of a senior government scientist who was fired in 2006 after rebelling against a directive to use "Canada's New Government" in government communications.

Andrew Okulitch was subsequently reinstated after his story went public, and the Conservatives finally retired the "Canada's New Government" handle after 21 months in office.

The "Harper Government" moniker rose to prominence in 2009, when its use was noted in light of a controversy over Conservative MPs posing with giant, mock government cheques bearing the party logo and MPs' signatures. The mock cheques were consigned to the dust bin, and the "Harper Government" handle went into partial hibernation.

Since December, the "Harper Government" has returned with a vengeance, sprouting like mushrooms across departmental communications.

The Prime Minister's Office did not immediately respond to a request for comment on why the new messaging has been implemented.

Scores of news releases — from the Canada Revenue Agency to Fisheries and Oceans — are all headlined by "Harper Government" actions.

Libyans held in Gadhafi's grip

► People are living in fear of the country's dictator and his supporters
 ► Some are calling for outside help ► Number of deaths unknown

The mourning tent was set up in Tripoli's Fashloum neighbourhood yesterday to receive grieving friends and neighbours of a 56-year-old man shot to death by Moammar Gadhafi's militiamen a week ago. No one dared show up. Paying condolences to a slain protester is dangerous in the Libyan capital.

A wave of arrests, killings and disappearances has terrorized Tripoli in a deadly crackdown by Gadhafi's regime as his opponents try to organize new protests Friday.

Bodies of people who vanished have been dumped in the street. Gunmen in SUVs have descended on homes in the night to drag away suspected protesters, identified by video footage of rallies that militiamen have pored through to spot faces.

Other militiamen have searched hospitals for wounded to take away.

Residents say they are under the watchful eyes of a variety of Gadhafi militias prowling the streets. They go under numerous names — Internal Security, the Central Support Force, the People's Force, the People's Guards and the Brigade of Mohammed al-Magarif, the head of Gadhafi's personal guard — and they are all searching for suspected protesters.

"There must be some sort of action as soon as possible ... Libyans can't wait any longer." A LIBYAN WRITER

"While you are speaking to me now, there are spies everywhere and people watching me and you," one man said, cutting short a conversation with an Associated Press reporter visiting the Tripoli district of Zawiyat al-Dahman yesterday.

The capital is crucial to the Libyan leader, his strongest remaining bastion after the uprising that began on Feb. 15 broke the entire eastern half of Libya out of his control and even swept over some cities in the west near Tripoli.

The clampdown in Tripoli has left some yearning for outside help. One 21-year-old in Zawiyat al-Dahman said residents were hoping for manpower to come from the opposition-held east.

A Libyan writer in his 70s said he rejects "foreign intervention" in Libya's upheaval, but wouldn't mind a "a powerful strike" on Gadhafi's headquarters to stop further bloodshed.

"There must be some sort of action as soon as possible. Time is running and Libyans can't wait any longer," the writer said.

Both sides in conflict dig in

Rebels reinforced a key oil port on Thursday while facing new regime airstrikes in eastern Libya, and thousands of angry mourners buried victims of a counteroffensive by Moammar Gadhafi's forces, shooting guns in the air, shouting "Down with Gadhafi!" and swearing to take vengeance.

Although there have been stirrings of a diplomatic effort to ease the crisis, an opposition spokesman flatly ruled out any negotiations with Gadhafi, saying "his hands are tainted with blood."

U.S. President Barack Obama insisted that Gadhafi leave office, declaring he had "lost the legitimacy to lead."

He pledged to hold Gadhafi and his loyalists accountable, saying the U.S. and the entire world were outraged by violence against the rebels, and he lauded UN sanctions meant to put international pres-

Signalling he was digging in, Gadhafi apparently has stepped up recruitment of mercenaries from other African countries, with an official in neighbouring Mali saying that 200 to 300 men have left for Libya in the past week.

The International Criminal Court in the Netherlands said it will investigate Gadhafi, his sons and his inner circle for possible crimes against humanity.

Piracy's corridor of terror, theft, murder

► What was a major thoroughfare is referred to as the Somali gauntlet

Thousands of sailors who once steered their yachts across the warm Indian Ocean are now rerouting, hiring replacement crews, packing their boats aboard cargo ships and contracting armed guards, or cancelling their dream voyages altogether.

With Somali pirates seizing vessels and killing hostages in an area as vast as the continental United States, boatyards, restaurants and other establishments along the yachters' routes have seen business fall — their customer base scared off.

Somali pirates killed four American yachters last month and kidnapped a Danish family aboard their 43-foot sailboat last week. A South African couple taken off their sailboat in October are still being held.

Yachts trying to sail from Asia to Europe through the Suez Canal face tough choices. They can't sail in the other direction because the winds aren't right. Bigger yachts can go around the southern tip of Africa, but the Cape of Good Hope is notorious for storms and shipwrecks.

For those who live aboard their boats and want to get home, few choices remain: Shell out big money to ship home their yacht or hire guards — or run the Somali gauntlet. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Economic losses

With many yachtsmen abandoning the region altogether, industries dependent on the routes are being devastated.

► Layoffs Kilifi Boatyard in Kenya has laid off half its permanent staff. Ten years ago, they'd see more than a dozen yachts come in needing repairs, paint and other work. This year, not one.

Star of scandal. Having a ball

HANS PUNZ/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ruby: Gem to older men

"Ruby" and Austrian businessman Richard Lugner arrived together for a lunch at restaurant Luigi in Koettlach, Lower Austria, on Thursday. Ruby, who is at the centre of the sex scandal plaguing Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi, will be Lugner's special guest at this year's Opera Ball.

Paid guards save yachters

The head of a private security company says his guards retook a yacht from Somali pirates after the Dutch couple on board locked themselves in a safe room.

Thomas Jakobsson of Naval Guards said Thursday that six of his guards were accompanying the Capricorn yacht on a separate motorboat. Six armed pirates were able to get aboard the Capricorn but the Dutch couple barricaded themselves.

Jakobsson says his men had a brief exchange of fire with the pirates before retaking the Capricorn with no casualties.

The Indian Ocean attack follows the deaths of four Americans last month after their yacht was taken. Last week a Danish family and two crew aboard a yacht also were hijacked.

Meanwhile, maritime news portal Maritimedanmark.dk says armed guards stopped an attack on the Danish-owned vessel Brattingborg when they exchanged fire with suspected pirates.

Maritimedanmark.dk says no one was injured on the Singapore-registered Brattingborg, which has a Thai crew, in Thursday's attack.

Shipowner Lars Steen Rasmussen was quoted as saying it was the first time the company had armed guards on one of its ships.

Power eludes women at big firms: Study

► Number of women in senior management rose by less than one percentage point over two years

As the world marks the 100th anniversary of International Women's Day next week, a study suggests few Canadian women hold the reins of power at big companies.

The 2010 Catalyst Census looked at women senior officers at the Financial Post 500 companies. It found 17.7 per cent of women were senior officers as of June 1, up only slightly from 16.9 per cent in 2008.

"While there's much to celebrate over the last 100 years, what our research shows is that women continue to be underrepresented in leadership," said Catalyst spokeswoman Deborah Gillis.

► Deborah Gillis

Canadians might be surprised that 142 companies listed, or 30 per cent, had no women in charge of a principle business unit, as board-elected officers or as policymakers, she said.

Among these are Bombardier, AbitibiBowater, Apotex and Transat A.T. Inc. They declined comment because they had not seen the census.

What was encouraging to Gillis was that the number of public companies listed with 25 per cent or more women senior officers rose 7.7 points in the past two years.

At the Bank of Nova Scotia, nine of its 21 senior officers were women: Almost 43 per cent. Companies with the highest percentage of women senior officers were Coast Capital Savings at 77.8 per cent, followed by State Farm Group, Dundee Corp. and Lululemon Athletica.

Oil prices eased below $102 US a barrel Thursday amid hopes that the conflict in Libya could be resolved by international mediation. The spike in oil prices, based on fears that crude output in the OPEC nation had been cut more than estimated, sent gasoline prices up all over the world.

After discovering spider webs in the vents, Mazda is recalling more than 65,000 Mazda6 cars from 2009-10 model years in the United States, Canada and Mexico. The Japanese automaker said Thursday the webs made by yellow sac spiders were a fire hazard, but could not explain why that particular species was crawling into the Mazda6 rather than other vehicles.

BP executives denied bonuses after spill

BP is blocking bonuses to executives who oversaw operations in the Gulf of Mexico during last year's disastrous well blowout, including former CEO Tony Hayward and former production head Andy Inglis.

The London-based oil company's annual report also revealed Thursday that new CEO Bob Dudley decided to forgo his 2010 bonus.

BP PLC said the board's remuneration decisions for 2010 were dominated by the scale and impact of the Gulf spill, which began with the April 20 explosion on the Deepwater Horizon rig that killed 11 workers and led to the worst oil spill in U.S. history.

BP is still dealing with the fallout of the blast, which caused more than 200-million barrels of oil to gush from the busted rig before it was capped in mid-July. The company faces massive fines in the United States and a raft of compensation cases.

Dudley, who said it was a "painful year," was the only executive director to receive a salary increase, taking his base earnings to $1.18 million US from $750,000 on his promotion to CEO in October. He will get no pay increase this year, but is eligible for shares worth about $4.6 million based on the company's performance over the next couple of years.

One of Dudley's first steps as CEO was to declare that incentive pay would in the future be linked to safety performance.

Hayward, who left BP after a series of public gaffes over the handling of the oil spill, will receive almost $150,000 a year as a non-executive at BP's Russian joint venture TNK-BP.

He left the BP board in October with a $1.7-million salary, which was doubled as a termination fee. He also received more than $47,000 compensation under British employment law and remains entitled to potential performance shares worth about $2.4 million.

It's 'the least they could do'

Mississippi shrimp James A. Miller, who estimates he lost up to $70,000 US in revenue due to the environmental damage caused by the BP oil spill, said company executives should be held accountable for the "poor decisions they've made."

"Taking money from them is the least they could do," Miller said.

Anthony Kennon, mayor of Orange Beach, a resort city in Alabama, whose community was hard hit by the spill, said he was not surprised by the BP decision on bonuses.

"Common sense would dictate that bonuses are predicated on performance and the oil spill in the Gulf is indicative of poor performance to me," he said.

5 MINUTES WITH: MICHELLE SKLAR

Michelle Sklar works at Poynt—a free Calgary-based application for iPhone and Blackberry smartphones that helps users locate, among other things, businesses, movies, restaurants and people. Poynt has more than five million users around the world.

You used to work with bnetTV.com, travelling the world, finding the latest and greatest in new technologies. What made you want to settle down with Poynt in Calgary? I'm from Vancouver, I've lived in Toronto, I've spent a lot of time in some pretty major city centres. I had always considered Calgary to be too small for my liking and I really began to realize in the last year and a half to two years that there were some amazing things that were happening in my own backyard. And I was feeling a little bit sheepish for not spending the time recognizing and finding ways to harness those opportunities.... There's exceptional people and exceptional opportunities and amazing technology that's happening in my own backyard... Poynt really kind of fit the bill for all of that.

Tell me a little about Poynt for those who have yet to download it.

It's a mobile, local search application that really allows you to connect with the local world around you. It will either find your location or you can put your location into the app and it tells you what's going on around you, and it helps you figure out how to engage in that world. For example, if I want to see what restaurants are around me I can go from finding that restaurant to discovering more about it. I can find it on a map, I can get directions and I can book dining reservations.

How has Poynt grown since it was launched?

Well, basically in about a two-year period we went from about 3,000 users to 5.7-million users. We're in eight countries; we have an average of 30,000 new users a day... I think that how people use their devices has really evolved in the same period of time that Poynt has gained greater adoption. I think that location-based services have become something of an essential app, the more people understand how to use their smartphone devices.

Science of locking lips

Worth Mentioning

Sheril Kirshenbaum, a researcher at the University of Texas at Austin, has compiled a motherlode of fragmented studies and observations from historians and sociologists, brain experts and animal-watchers in a surprisingly slim and definitely curious new book, The Science of Kissing: What Our Lips Are Telling Us.

Her conclusion? Inconclusive. The act of "osculation" — in technical parlance — is ingrained in more than 90 per cent of cultures around the world. If they don't place lips on lips — or lips elsewhere — they lick or nibble with the same goals in mind.

If we could unravel its origins, Kirshenbaum surmises, we could unlock a trove of evolutionary and physiological mysteries that might carry the kiss from merely interesting to incredibly valuable.

Scientists can't decide whether kissing is instinctual (newborns pucker for their first taste of mother's milk), cultural (learned, that is, for joy or survival) or deeper still (ingrained in our very DNA) — or all of the above.

The German language alone has 30 words for kissing, including one, "nachkussen," which is a kiss to compensate for those that have not occurred, according to Kirshenbaum.

A presentation at the University of Calgary Saturday aims to take curious art enthusiasts on a journey back in time.

Speaker Terry Proctor, director at Swirl Fine Art and Design, will present a slideshow and demonstration on encaustic painting.

Also known as hot wax painting, the practice dates back to 400 BC where it was first used by the Egyptians. Proctor has created numerous pieces using the encaustic method and will show off her skills at the presentation, which begins at 7:30 p.m. in Room 162 of the U of C's earth sciences building.

The cost to attend is $5 for the general public and $2 for students with ID.

Damon & Blunt shine

► The Reel Guys debate the merits of The Adjustment Bureau ► On screen chemistry of Blunt and Damon help lift genre-bending film to another level

Richard Crouse: Mark, I really liked this movie even though I can't really tell you what it is. It's sci-fi, but it's also an effective romance. It's also an action movie that is quite funny. It's all that and more, which makes it kind of hard to pigeon-hole. Do you think that vagueness will hurt it at the box office?

Mark Breslin: I liked the movie too, although I suppose it was all part of the plan. I imagine the hope would be that all those genres will each bring in its own audience, which is possible. I think if you liked The Truman Show or Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind, or even The Box, this movie may be for you, although it's far less menacing than those films.

Plot synopsis

► Matt Damon and Emily Blunt play star-crossed lovers who fell in love at first sight, but somehow are kept apart for years. When they have a second chance meeting he becomes determined not to let her go, but the mysterious men from the Adjustment Bureau are just as determined to keep them apart.

What might hurt it at the box office is its intelligence.

RC: As far as box office goes I think the thing that this movie really has going for it is the chemistry between Matt Damon and Emily Blunt. Sparks fly between them, especially in their scene on the New York City bus. It's sexy, flirty and lots of fun. They are completely believable as a couple and as an audience member I was pulling for them.

Richard ●●●●½
Mark: ●●●●●

MB: Yes, and I'm glad they let Emily Blunt keep her British accent — a sign of a superior movie. But I really think it's an idea movie as much as a romance. It's a preposterous premise, but everything proceeds logically once you accept it. But my complaint is that the details are so arbitrary: the doors, the hats, the rain. Oh, and why are there no women in The Adjustment Bureau? Is the Chairman ... a sexist?

RC: We never really meet the Chairman ... perhaps he is a she. Who knows? Like all great science fiction, The Adjustment Bureau isn't as much about the ideas — do we have free will or just the illusion of free will? — as much as it is about the characters. Without strong leads this might have been a mishmash of arbitrary, unbelievable details, but with Blunt and Damon at the centre of it all, it gels.

MB: And good secondary characters, too. John Slattery is note-perfect, and the arrival of Terrence Stamp halfway through has to mean things are going to get rougher. But did Damon's campaign manager have to look so much like Eliot Spitzer? I found that unnerving.

► Hollywood tomboy had no problem fitting into another 'tough girl' role for Battle: Los Angeles

NED EHRBAR

METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

Michelle Rodriguez is no stranger to roles that put her in uniform, thanks to a tough girl image she's developed — and accepted — thanks to roles in Girlfight, The Fast and the Furious and Lost. In her latest, Battle: Los Angeles, Rodriguez goes full military as an Air Force tech sergeant trying to stop an alien invasion. Metro spoke with Rodriguez about being a tomboy, breaking character on set and her rather detailed thoughts on aliens.

read a script and you think, "OK, this is a doable script. It's a cool alien invasion flick." The other 50 per cent of what's going to yay or nay it for me is what the aliens look like and how you're going to shoot it. Most of the time if you see an alien invasion film and it's titled Battle: Los Angeles, you would just imagine the Hollywood sign being blown up. You imagine iconic, macrocosmic images of explosions, and nothing personal or intimate. And what attracted me to the film is that I felt it was going to be about the story of these guys and trying to survive, and it would be intimate.

What was it about this film that made you want to do it?
(Director) Jonathan (Liebesman)'s style. You

Was it hard to find your place among all the guys?
No, I'm kind of used to it now. The tomboy thing is pretty much my world. It was easy. We were playing video games in between takes, chilling. I actually got a little bit too close with the boys. Those protein shakes, you know, can make you talk without opening your mouth, let's put it that way. Not cute.

► Michelle Rodriguez stars in Battle: Los Angeles, which opens next Friday.

What's guided your career choices?

I don't know. I have a hard time going against my gut. You know when you feel like you need to go left, and everyone around you saying you need to go right? I will go left, because it's what my gut says. Most people I've encountered are not that type of person, so you run into a lot of problems being a lefty when everyone wants to go right. I wouldn't be considered a tough chick if everybody were going left. I'm only considered a tough chick because I'm going against the grain.

Is it true that Aaron Eckhart stayed in character for the whole shoot?

Yeah, I didn't meet him until a couple of weeks ago. I met Sgt. Nantz. I know he hated having my ass on set. You hear somebody cackling as soon as they say, "Cut." I'm totally breaking the concentration. I'm over here laughing my ass off every five seconds. Yeah, I'm pretty annoying for tactical actors. You know, guys who do that thing.

Do you believe in aliens and UFOs?

I've never seen one. I do believe in the possibility of them. Just because we can only perceive four per cent of existence, the other 96 per cent is a mystery. I just have to be open to the idea, you know? I can't close my mind to it. It just wouldn't be logical to me. And if they did exist, I don't believe they would be violent just because to travel light years away, you would have to embody more light than be a solid, crystalized creature like humans are. I just can't imagine them being violent in any way, shape or form. I find that to be more of a human trait because we decay and we're more close to life and death than I think light creatures would be. You know? I think if you were an inter-dimensional creature, you would just have to be enlightened in some way.

Movie review

See it twice 🍿🍿🍿🍿 | See it now 🍿🍿🍿 | Worth watching 🍿🍿 | Yawn 🍿 | Don't bother 🍿

Attempt at broad appeal dooms Rango

Rango
Genre: Animated
Director: Gore Verbinski
Stars: Johnny Depp, Isla Fisher, Timothy Olyphant

🍿½
Rango is a big expensive mess of a movie from director Gore Verbinski, recalling his aggravatingly assaultive attempts at entertainment in the Pirates Of The Caribbean sequels. The film piles on interminable action set pieces, one-note characters attempting humour, and an endless stream of confused movie references that only serves to remind the audience of better movies that they'd rather be watching. Much like a public school outcast desperate for friends, the more Verbinski and his CGI animation wizards try to be liked, the more you'll want to push them away and possibly steal their lunch money.

The movie is a Western homage that sees Johnny Depp's wacky lizard take over as the sheriff of a one-horse town populated by anthropomorphized desert scavengers who use water for currency. The screenplay mixes broad jokes that will make adults' eyes roll with pop culture references and crude humor that will fly over the head of children (unless they are familiar with Hunter S. Thompson and mammograms, of course). Rango won't entirely appeal to either audience and is destined to peak on the daytime TV and airline movie market where viewers will put up with it out of a lack of alternatives. ● PHIL BROWN

Director: Daniel Barnz
Stars: Vanessa Hudgens, Alex Pettyfer

🍿½
If you ever doubted that beauty is only skin deep, Beastly will drive that message into your head with the subtlety of a cricket bat. In this modern-take of Beauty and the Beast, an unlikeable rich kid is cursed with scars (and the phrase "embrace the suck" in place of eyebrows) until he can get High School Musical's

Vanessa Hudgens to love him. However, fumbling dialogue and little chemistry between the leads will do little to earn the love of audiences, unless of course they embrace the suck.. ● STEVE GOW

Cedar Rapids
Genre: Comedy

Stars: Ed Helms, John C. Reilly

ly and Anne Heche
Cedar Rapids is best described as a Sundance comedy; a character-based movie that is not a laugh a minute. It's not even a laugh every five minutes, which is a shame given the talent involved. Ed Helms plays a small town schlub exposed to sex, drugs and rock 'n' roll at an insurance convention in the "big" city of Cedar Rapids. There's too much space between the funny bits to call this an outright comedy.

3-D revolution is here to stay

► The box office receipts show that the public is all in on 3-D movies ► Hollywood sees a cash cow and is going to milk it for all it's worth ► Directors like Cameron and Burton think any type of movie can be made in 3-D

SCENE@METRONWS.CA

METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

There is no question that, since the premiere of James Cameron's Avatar, which grossed $2.7 billion US worldwide, 3-D technology has become a major part of Hollywood movies. And the surge in 3-D films has bolstered the box office draw for all genres, from Clash of the Titans to Toy Story 3 to even Justin Bieber's documentary and concert film, Never Say Never.

With worries about declining theatre attendance on the rise as viewers enjoy more options at home, 3-D has created a ray of ► James Cameron's blockbuster hit Avatar has ushered in a new era of 3-D movies that isn't likely to stop anytime soon.

3-D numbers

- Number of 3-D movies released in 2005: 3
- Number of 3-D movies released in 2010: 24
- Cost to make Avatar: US$280 million, estimated
- Amount Avatar grossed internationally: $2.7 billion
- Cost to convert a regular film into 3-D: $5 million
- Worldwide gross of the converted 3-D Clash of the Titans: $493 million
- Average cost of a regular ticket: $12.75
- Average cost of 3-D ticket: $15.75

hope for distributors — at least until 3-D televisions become affordable. It also gives theatre owners the chance to make more money by charging more for 3-D: A single movie ticket for a 3-D presentation in New York City can cost as much as $18. A regular ticket only costs $13. Cameron, like many, is sticking with the new technology. "I'm going to make all my movies in 3-D, no matter what the subject matter," he says. "We'll see if other filmmakers rise to that challenge."

Other filmmakers certainly appear to be, including veteran horror movie maestro Wes Craven.

"Everything I'm reading about it is that this is not something from the '50s that they're just trying again for the hell of it," Craven says. "I think we're into a world where 3-D is emerging and it's going to be here. I want to be the man that's on the boat, not standing on the dock when the boat sails away."

Tim Burton, whose Alice in Wonderland has grossed more than $1 billion US worldwide, thanks in large part to 3-D ticket sales, is also on that boat.

"It's not a gimmick," Burton says. "You could do 'My Dinner with Andre' in 3-D."

But not everyone is jumping on board the 3-D bandwagon. One notable holdout is director Gore Verbinski, who made a point of not using 3-D for his latest animated feature, Rango, starring Johnny Depp.

"I don't think there's a dimension missing," he says of the finished product. "I don't watch it and go, 'You know, it's flat,' or it's missing anything. We talked about it early on and it just didn't seem like we needed to go there."

Handler keeps busy, adds another show

Chelsea Handler may be the busiest-ever under-the-radar late night talk show host.

That description is particularly a propos in Canada, where Handler's cheeky chatfest Chelsea Lately airs weeknights at 11:30 on E! — an imported-from-America specialty brand that was off the air north of the border for about a year as rights swung from Global to CTV.

The 36-year-old comedienne is about to add to her E! efforts with the launch of After Lately, which premieres Sunday at 11 p.m. ET. The new weekly series will attempt to capture the madness that goes on all week behind the scenes between Handler, her older brother Roy, her diminutive sidekick Chuy, her writers and other members of her on-air entourage.

"There's a lot of backstage stuff going on," she told Conan O'Brien on his talk show this week, "and I figure we should be filming this because it's really, really immature and we should be making this into a TV show."

The new show is in addition to her comedy concert career, her writing career (she's the author of three bestsellers with a new book due in May) and her producing career (NBC is developing a sitcom based on one of those books, Are You There, Vodka? It's Me, Chelsea).

Where does she find the time?

"The reason I'm able to do so many other things," she told O'Brien, "is my show requires absolutely no brain power. It's very, very stupid. All we talk about is celebrities and all we do is kind of play jokes on each other in the office."

Star hands car keys to Canadians

► Vintage automobile with some serious rock cred is donated to the Canada Science and Technology Museum

He had fun, fun, fun till the museum took his T-bird away.

Rock-music icon Randy Bachman has donated his 1965 Thunderbird to Canada's national science museum.

Bachman, a lead guitarist who gained fame as a founder of the Guess Who and Bachman-Turner Overdrive, bought the car from his Guess Who collaborator, Burton Cummings — giving the vintage wheels a double musical pedigree.

"Burton Cummings drove this car around L.A. for many years," Bachman wrote in an email to The Canadian Press. "Every time he'd drive me somewhere, I'd ogle at the car and tell him that if he ever wanted to sell it, he should call me ..."

"Fast forward to 2003, we're touring with the Guess Who when he offered me the car, and I bought it."

The sleek status symbol

from the rockin' 1960s is in mint condition. With its powerful V8 engine, a growling T-bird can make "the Indy 500 look like a Roman chariot race," as the Beach Boys famously sang in their 1964 hit Fun, Fun, Fun.

The jet-black speedster, which joined the science collection in January, has its own curious place in Canadian music history, apart from its famous pop-star owners.

For years, a demo tape of a 1987 Bachman-Cummings recording session in White Rock, B.C., was lost somewhere in the trunk.

"It's beautiful, pretty damn cool. It looks great ... other than a good wash, the car is in great shape."

LUC FOURNIER,
CANADA SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY MUSEUM

Rediscovered during a restoration seven years ago, the rare digital recordings of 10 lost songs were eventually turned into a CD entitled — what else? — the Thunderbird Trax.

Bachman long ago donated his extensive musical archives to Library and Archives Canada, and learned from officials of an interest in the car.

"I heard through them that the museum of science and technology was looking for the 'ultimate Canadian rock 'n' roll car' and I thought of the Thunderbird, so I offered it to them," Bachman said in his email.

"I still travel a lot playing rock festivals and gigs, plus we have homes in Salt Spring Island, B.C., London and Santa Monica, so there's no time to enjoy driving these days."

The 1965 T-bird is the fourth generation of the best-selling roadster, and the first model equipped with standard front-wheel disc brakes.

It's currently sitting in a dark corner of a museum warehouse in Ottawa, under a tarp and getting some minor touch-ups after its long journey by truck from Bachman's home on Salt Spring Island.

But museum officials are planning a splashy event with Bachman showing off his hot wheels, though details have not yet been worked out.

The News bring soul to new album

► In Soulsville, Huey Lewis and his bandmates were inspired by obscure soul classics ► But they make it their own with band's signature sound

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

Huey Lewis came of age in San Francisco in the late '60s, that fantastical time and place for heady music, where the figureheads of classic rock all seemed to just sprout up from the ground. He liked that stuff, but it didn't floor him.

"Johnny, Sean and Billy, we were all from the Bay Area, but listening to soul music, oddly enough," he says about his bandmates Johnny Colla, Sean Hopper and Billy Gibson, who for more than 30 years have been known to the world as the News.

"Our brothers, and my mother, for example, was a big Dead Head."

But Lewis and his pals weren't so "grateful" for acid rock. They'd rather hear a brass section.

"The horn thing for me was like guitar relief," says Lewis. "I'd had enough freakin' guitar!"

And with Soulsville, the latest Huey Lewis and the

► Huey Lewis

News album, the band went back to their record collection and found themselves in a series of somewhat obscure soul classics.

"We were trying to capture it correctly, and it's nothing like Huey Lewis and the News," he says. "And then we listened to the playback, and all of a sudden it sounds like Huey Lewis and the News. And the realization for me is how much I was influenced by this stuff. And I didn't even realize it."

No place that he'd rather be
It's been eight years since Huey Lewis has played in New York City.

We told him we thought it was a moral obligation to play every city he mentions in his 1983 song The Heart of Rock 'n' Roll, where he sings, "New York, New York, is everything they say / And no place that I'd rather be / Where else can you do a half a million things / All at a quarter to three."

Lewis laughed and explained that when he plays the area these days, he's usually playing Westbury, N.Y. "We were a beer-and-hot-dog band," he says. "Now we're part of the wine and cheese set."

Lively honoured as face of Chanel

Blake Lively's style has inspired many, but she says it was her mother who helped to shape her own fashion sensibilities.

Lively — the new face of Chanel's Mademoiselle handbag — was honoured by the famed fashion label at a dinner Wednesday night. At the event, Lively gave credit to her mother for educating her about fashion.

Lively says her mother was a model so she was always exposed to beautiful clothes. Her mother would also make clothes and bring her daughters with her to buy fabrics.

Lively said besides the right look, confidence is key in making an outfit work. Though critics may disagree on one of her red-carpet looks, Lively says as long as she feels comfort-

Bigelow asks judge to dismiss vet's case

The Oscar-winning director and screenwriter of The Hurt Locker are asking a federal judge to dismiss an Iraq war veteran's lawsuit alleging the film is based on him.

Attorneys for director

Kathryn Bigelow and screenwriter Mark Boal argue in court filings that Master Sgt. Jeffrey Sarver cannot prove he is the basis for the bomb technician in the film.

They also argue in court papers filed Wednesday that the movie is protected by the First Amendment.

The film's producers have also asked to have Sarver's lawsuit dismissed. The case was filed in March 2010, just days before Bigelow, Boal and the film won Academy Awards.

A message for Sarver's attorney was not returned. According to court filings, Sarver is currently deployed in Afghanistan.

Stone leaves no reality show unturned

- ▶ Aussie chef Curtis Stone to host Top Chef Masters
- ▶ Also investing in America's Next Great Restaurant

Whether he's coaching The Biggest Loser contestants, filling in for Kathie Lee Gifford on Today, co-hosting the Miss USA pageant or barbecuing for Oprah Winfrey, it seems like Curtis Stone is everywhere these days.

In his role on NBC's new reality TV eatery contest, he's adding a new title to his ever-growing résumé: investor.

The lanky Australian chef is serving as a financial backer of the grand prize — a fast-casual restaurant chain with outposts in Los Angeles, New York and Minneapolis — on America's Next Great Restaurant (premiering Sunday at 8 p.m. EST) alongside celebrity chef Bobby Flay, Chipotle founder Steve Ells and restaurateur Lorena Garcia.

"Normally, when NBC comes to you and wants you to do a show, you're like, 'Woo hoo! I just landed a new show,'" said Stone. "This was different because they actually wanted us to get our checkbooks out."

"There are people that are just naturals on television, and Curtis is one of them."

DAN CUTFORTH, EXECUTIVE PRODUCER, TOP CHEF MASTERS

Stone wouldn't say how much the group is contributing to launch the winner's restaurant chain, but insisted, "We're all equal investors in terms of our financial commitment to it, which means we get an equal say in how this is going to work."

If it flops, Stone already has another gig lined up. He's the new host of Bravo's Top Chef Masters.

"It's a dream job for me," he said earlier this month on the set of the Bravo cooking competition spin-off, where he's taken over Kelly Choi's spot for the third season. "When they first approached me, I told them they needed to mix it up and put all of the chefs together in one pool, and they told me that's exactly what they were doing."

That means the contest will play out more like a regular Top Chef season. Producers dumped the numerical scoring system in favour of having the experienced "chefestants" eliminated one by one by the show's judges.

Dan Cutforth and Jane Lipsitz, the Top Chef Masters and America's Next Great Restaurant executive producers at production company Magical Elves, point to Stone's combination of stunning good looks, exotic Aussie accent, culinary skills and entrepreneurial prowess as the reasons why it seems as though he's on every TV show these days, except Jersey Shore.

Jolie a 'shockingly great mother': Depp

Johnny Depp says working with Angelina Jolie on his latest film taught him to think of her in a different way — as a great mother.

Depp says he does not know how Jolie and partner Brad Pitt handle parenthood while juggling the distractions of being famous. He says Jolie is "a shockingly great mother" and remains calm despite all the paparazzi and pressures of fame.

Depp says he'd "probably be in prison" if he had to deal with as many kids.

Jolie and Pitt have six children. Depp has two with French actress Vanessa Paradis.

Mariah feels 'horrible' over Gadhafi concert

Mariah Carey says she wasn't aware that she was booked to perform a concert linked to Gadhafi's clan — and she's embarrassed about it.

Carey is among a handful of entertainers who were paid handsome fees to give exclusive private concerts. It was later revealed the people behind those concerts were the family of embattled Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi.

In a statement, Carey says she was naive about the booking of the performance and feels "horrible and embarrassed." But she adds that performers must bear responsibility and be aware of whom they are performing for.

We all scream for Fallon

Host celebrates two years of television by branding his very own Late Night snack

As Jimmy Fallon celebrates his second anniversary hosting Late Night, what he eats for dessert should be a no-brainer: a brand-new ice cream flavour named for his show.

The scoop about Ben & Jerry's Late Night Snack was timed to the milestone Fallon marked on Wednesday, two years after he took over for Conan O'Brien as host of the NBC talk show (which airs weeknights at 12:35 a.m. EST).

"I'm still enjoying it as much as I did when we first got started," Fallon said earlier this week. "It's so much fun!"

"Back then, the audience didn't know what to expect. I didn't even know what to expect!"

Everybody knows now: goofy, playful comedy and jovial chat, plus his powerhouse band, The Roots. With that formula, Fallon's Late Night has settled into a robust battle with its CBS rival, The Late Late Show With Craig Ferguson — a ratings battle that often tips in Fallon's favour.

And now he has his own ice cream, too.

Previously, Ben & Jerry's flavours have saluted such show-biz figures as Stephen Colbert (Stephen Colbert's Americone Dream), Elton John (Goodbye Yellow Brick Road), Jerry Garcia (Cherry Garcia) and Vermont-bred rockers Phish (Phish Food).

But Fallon is the first broadcast late-night TV host to be so honoured.

"I creamed them," he said with a chuckle, speaking of his competitors, adding, "They will want to eat it."

Its development inadvertently got churning last summer when Fallon performed a musical tribute to Ben & Jerry's with his spoof vocal group, Ladysmith

► How sweet it is: Jimmy Fallon, left, stacks frozen waffles on the hands of actress Isla Fisher in order to break a record during a taping of his show.

Snack Mambazo.

After that, Ben & Jerry's contacted the show and requested a meeting.

"They set up ice cream in our conference room, started talking, and asked if we wanted to do our own flavour," Fallon recalled. "We said, 'Are you kidding?! That's living the dream!'"

But they had to solve this problem: What should be the ice cream's key ingredient that would signify a late-night snack? Fig Newtons and Grape-Nuts fell by the wayside.

Then Fallon and his executive producer Michael

Shoemaker hit on an odd but winning snack component: potato chips.

The Ben & Jerry's people figured out a way to crush the chips and transform them into clusters, which, coated in chocolate, were mixed into vanilla ice cream with caramel swirls as a sweet-and-salty treat.

Now, having licked that challenge, Fallon is looking ahead to a new year he envisions as even sweeter than before.

He says Late Night plans another round of its show-within-a-show, The Real Housewives of Late Night, and a new comedy feature: Jersey Floor.

"You push a button in the elevator," explained Fallon, "and when you get off on that floor, you're Jersey-fied: You're tanned, you have a blow-out and there's a nightclub atmosphere."

Next week, when the show is in repeats, he won't be resting. He heads to Houston, where he'll tape comedy segments at a rodeo.

"It's all fun opportunities," Fallon said, summing up his busy life.

"It's doors opening where I think, 'I'd be crazy not to go in.'"

Gov. Gen. award for Shatner

William Shatner and Oscar-winning composer Howard Shore are among this year's recipients of the Governor General's Performing Arts Award for lifetime achievement.

Quebec humorist Yvon Deschamps, dance artist Margie Gillis, theatrical director Leslee Silverman and theatre creator Paul Thompson rounded out the list of honourees announced Thursday.

Past recipients of the award include Robert LePage, Robbie Robertson, Kate & Anna McGarrigle and Stompin' Tom Connors.

► William Shatner

Meanwhile, the recently Oscar-nominated Quebec director Denis Villeneuve was given the National Arts Centre award for exceptional achievement over the past year, which comes with a medallion and $25,000.

And Jean-Andre Elie — a longtime supporter of the Orchestre symphonique de Montreal — received the Ramon John Hnatyshyn Award for volunteer work in the performing arts.

Shatner, a 79-year-old Montreal native who has won two Emmy Awards and a Golden Globe, also took a lifetime achievement award at last year's Banff World Television Festival.

Meanwhile, Shore, who won three Academy Awards for his work on the "Lord of the Rings" trilogy, called the award a "great honour." He too has previously received a lifetime achievement award, with his coming from the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

Sum 41 lead singer hospitalized with pneumonia

Sum 41 is cancelling shows in Australia after lead singer Deryck Whibley was hospitalized with severe pneumonia.

In a statement, the band says Whibley, 30, is being treated at a hospital in Sydney, where he'll stay until he recovers.

The band, from Ajax, Ont., also had to cancel a number of concerts last summer when Whibley suffered a slipped disc.

He said he was assaulted in a bar in Japan in a "random unprovoked incident."

India finds her latest influence in Israel

▶ India.Arie sings in both English and Hebrew on upcoming CD

On India.Arie's last album, she blended a world music sound with her signature style of soul. She's planning to take things to the next level on an upcoming CD with Israeli singer Idan Raichel.

"I always go different (and) I went even farther," India.Arie said in a recent interview.

The album, Open Door, will be released this summer. It will feature songs in Hebrew and English, though India.Arie doesn't know Hebrew, explaining that Raichel "teaches me the translation."

While vacationing in Israel, the 34-year-old singer asked locals who the most influential political singer-songwriter was in town.

"Everybody said, 'Idan Raichel, Idan Raichel' — same name all the time," she recalled. "So I just went to his little apartment, I heard his music and was like, 'That's my music!'"

BANDS TO WATCH DURING CANADIAN MUSIC WEEK

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS

SCENE@METRONews.CA

With the 29th edition of Canadian Music Week set to start in Toronto on Wednesday, the city is preparing for the annual invasion of more than 800 acts from around the planet who will somehow manage to play gigs in 55 venues over just five nights. It's like the flooding of the Nile during a plague of locusts. Only drunker.

While the industry folk will be caught up in the conference with its panels, speakers and awards ceremonies, everyone else can focus on figuring out which band to see. Here are some recommendations from me along with links to more music.

Altan Vrag

When I say that bands come from around the world to play CMW, I'm not kidding. The seven members of this group from Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia and are committed to merging traditional Mongolian music with something more contemporary. altanurag.mn

Berri Txarrak

Their name translates as "Bad News" from Euskara, the language of Basque country along the Spain-France border. Tim McIlrath of Rise Against is a big fan of their kind of punk rock and has recorded at least one song with them. bit.ly/e8lc1m

The Coppertone

A Toronto trio led by the very red-haired Amanda Zelina. When Billy Gibbons of ZZ Top saw Amanda play in a vintage guitar shop in Hollywood, he predicted that she will go far. I agree with him. thecoppertone.com

Freedom or Death

This Toronto bunch was much hyped leading into their appearance at CMJ in New York last October — and with good reason. They have a new EP entitled EGO coming April 26. myspace.com/freedomordeathmusic

The Hippy Mafia

Happy Mondays' drummer Gaz Whelan was persuaded by his wife to move from Manchester to Burlington, Ont., on the basis of a real estate show she saw on TV. The first thing he did was form a band. With big-name management on the horizon, this is one band you do not want to miss. thehippymafia.com

But this one exploded in popularity after Lady Gaga herself saw the video and posted a link on Twitter. Aragon has been on a whirlwind media tour ever since and her video now has more than 17 million views.

Jackson tributes on Glee?

Scream! The cast of Glee could be planning a Michael or Janet Jackson tribute — that's if Glee star Amber Riley can get her way.

"I think it would be prolific for us to do Janet Jackson," said Riley, who stars as divalike glee club member Mercedes Jones.

Riley also said a tribute to the King of Pop is overdue.

"We did a mini tribute to Michael Jackson, but we really want to do a full tribute to Michael Jackson because his music is so timeless, so we really want to touch (on) that," she said. The cast's sixth CD, Glee: The Music, Vol. 5, will be out on Tuesday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

► Sheen continues downward spiral while experts wonder if he's bipolar

As Charlie Sheen's media blitz following the cancellation of his sitcom continues, experts worry that the actor is showing signs of bipolar disorder, according to Popeater.

"He looks bipolar. He's in a particularly manic phase," psychologist Stuart Fischhoff tells the website.

"His reality testing has been severely impaired, marked by delusions of grandeur. His head now is as large as the moon."

Sheen certainly thinks highly of himself, as he proved in an interview with ABC's 20/20.

"You borrow my brain for five seconds and just be like, 'Dude, can't handle it! Unplug this bastard!'" Sheen said. "It fires in a way that is perhaps not from this terrestrial realm."

When

asked in a recent interview if he thought he was bipolar, he responded with some more of his now legendary quotes.

"What's the cure? Medicine? Make me like them? Not gonna happen. I'm bi-winning. I win here. I win there."

TOGETHER AGAIN!

When Barbie and Ken showed up at the New York Fashion

Week recently, the spotlight moved from the runways to this dazzling pair who have been spotted just about everywhere in the past month! Tanned and relaxed after a week skiing in Vail, Barbie was a real doll in a scarlet lace Oscar de la Renta gown. Ken wore a classic Armani tux. Sources say the quintessential couple used Barbie's glam vacation jet to get to the Big Apple... and now they're winging their way to Bora Bora in French Polynesia for a little more R&R. Sigh.

No rehab for Christina Aguilera

PEOPLE. Despite her arrest earlier this week for public intoxication, Christina Aguilera isn't heading to rehab.

Instead, she's heading to TV. Aguilera announced that she'll be a judge on NBC's new reality competition show, The Voice, along with Cee Lo Green and Adam Levine.

"I am so excited to be part of such a wonderful project that celebrates music and the talent behind it," Aguilera says, according to Hollyscoop.

"To be given the opportunity to help shape new artists' careers and mentor them to see their dreams come to fruition is a task I welcome with open arms."

PEOPLE. Scarlett Johansson and Sean Penn reportedly enjoyed a whirlwind trip to Mexico earlier this week, jetting to Cabo San Lucas by a private jet for a lobster dinner Tuesday night and returning to Los Angeles Wednesday, according to People magazine.

The pair were also spotted sharing an intimate lunch at a Cuban restaurant in L.A., with Johansson resting her leg in Penn's lap, according to sources. Johansson's rep has previously denied the pair are dating.

The real question is why Michael, who is "100 per cent sober," according to Radar Online, is doing the show to begin with. Michael "has a lot of unresolved feelings of anger toward (ex-wife) Dina (Lohan), and that needs to be dealt with," a source close to the show explains.

Baby, it's cold outside so warm up with port

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

I associate a lot of four letter words with winter but my favourite is "port": the goodness that is Portugal's liquid claim to fame and the perfect thing to sip on when the weather is frightful.

There are four main varieties of true Portuguese port.

The lightest are called Ruby because of their bright colour.

Those designated Tawny are made by blending many wines to create a balanced wine that's rich.

Late bottled vintage versions are made from a blend of wines that share the same vintage, and vintage styles are wines made from grapes grown in a single year.

It's simple until the juice hits your mouth. The combo of higher alcohol and complexity of flavours can come across as unsettling as any recent Charlie Sheen interview.

A great place to start with Port is somewhere in the middle like Taylor Fladgate's 10 Year Old Tawny ($34.95 - $40.48).

Mozart in a glass

Convinced that music is a key ingredient for good wine, an Austrian man has invented a speaker that exposes fermenting grape juice to classical, jazz or electronic tunes.

Markus Bachmann theorizes the sound waves emanating from his speaker move yeast particles around and cause them to eat up greater amounts of sugar, resulting in a wine that has a lower overall sugar content.

Another day to work it out

► NFL, union agree to 24-hour deadline extension in labour talks

► NFL Players Association executive director DeMaurice Smith speaks to the media on Thursday.

CLIFF OWEN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

America's favourite sport is still in business — for another day.

The NFL and the players' union agreed Thursday to a 24-hour extension of the current collective bargaining agreement so that negotiations can continue.

Indianapolis Colts centre Jeff Saturday, a member of the NFL Players Association's executive committee, told The Associated Press about the extension after the sides met for about eight hours before a federal mediator. The CBA was set to expire on Friday, which would likely have prompted the first work stoppage since 1987 for a league that rakes in $9 billion US a year.

At issue

The biggest sticking point all along has been how to divide the league's revenues, including what cut team owners should get up front to help cover certain costs, such as stadium construction.

"We just know right now that we granted a 24-hour extension," Saturday said as he and Steelers quarterback Charlie Batch left the session.

Union executive director DeMaurice Smith emerged from the talks soon after.

"For all our fans who dig our game, we appreciate your patience as we work through this," he said. "We are going to keep working. We want to play football."

Failing to make a deal could put the two sides on the road to a year without football, even though opening kickoff of the 2011 season is still six months away. The labour unrest comes as the NFL is at the height of its popularity, breaking records for TV ratings: This year's Super Bowl was the most-watched program in U.S. history.

Without a new CBA, the owners could lock out the players and the union could decertify to try and prevent that through the courts — something the NFLPA did in 1989. It formed again in 1993.

While the league and players' union met for a 10th day with mediator George Cohen, even President Barack Obama weighed in when asked if he would intervene.

"I'm a big football fan," Obama said, "but I also think that for an industry that's making $9 billion a year in revenue, they can figure out how to divide it up in a sensible way and be true to their fans, who are the ones who obviously allow for all the money that they're making. So my expectation and hope is that they will resolve it without me intervening, because it turns out I've got a lot of other stuff to do."

Injured Williams says he'll be on court in London

New Jersey Nets point guard Deron Williams will play Friday, despite a wrist and hand injury, against the Toronto Raptors in the NBA's first regular-season game in Europe.

Williams, who was traded from the Utah Jazz last week, has a strained right wrist and bruised left hand. "I'm playing," said Williams on Wednesday. He strained his wrist before coming to the Nets, and bruised his other hand on Monday in an overtime loss to the Phoenix Suns.

Nets coach Avery Johnson seemed comfortable with Williams' status for the game at the O2 Arena in London, the first of two "home" games against the Raptors.

"He's in good shape right now," Johnson said.

The Nets have only played one home game since Williams joined the team, and they are giving up two more to be in the British capital this weekend.

"It's not easy necessarily losing home games, and no NBA team necessarily wants to do it," Johnson said. "But you're going to see this happening more and more, and especially with our team with the presence of our owner (Russian businessman) Mikhail Prokhorov."

Both teams have Europeans on their rosters. The Raptors boast Italy centre Andrea Bargnani and Spain guard Jose Calderon, two of the best continental players in the NBA.

FIELD OF PLAY

For Canada these are halcyon days.

One is the stereotypical notion that we are a country of hockey players and curlers ... end of story. Consider the exploits of Milos Raonic on the tennis courts, Joey Votto, one of Major League Baseball's most valuable performers, or the timeless Steve Nash of basketball fame.

Three recent happenings, however, constitute a revelation in terms of how Canada is regarded as a maturing sporting nation.

The first is Erik Guay's downhill victory at last month's alpine skiing world championships in Germany.

Guay's win was surprising given his performance this season. But his triumph was not unforeseen or a fluke based on his past record.

He is, after all, a Crystal Globe winner as the World Cup super-G champion and at the Olympics missed two gold medals by a whisker. Also, the man Guay succeeded as world champion is another Canadian, namely John Kucera.

Next is the historic gold-medal victory by the cross-country sprint relay team of Devon Kershaw and Alex Harvey at the Nordic world championships in Oslo, Norway.

Again, it was not — repeat NOT — a surprise.

Kershaw had won four medals at the earlier Tour de Ski and along with Harvey combined for a close fourth-place finish at the Olympics in Whistler in this very event.

But the breakthrough is real because, for the very first time, it puts Canadian men on top in one of the world's most contested winter sports.

Nordic skiing pre-dates alpine skiing in Olympic history and the competitive field of play is ultra-deep.

Finally, news that Canada will host the 2015 FIFA Women's World Cup is groundbreaking.

It matters not that Canada is the only country to go the distance in the bid process.

What does count is there are more than 375,000 registered, female soccer players in this country, nearly an even split with males. That compares with about 85,000 women who play hockey.

Soccer has more formal participants than any other sport in Canada and it's not even close.

All of which means the chance for Canada to host the world and continue the effort to discover gender equality in high-performance sport is both exciting and commendable.

These are great days for Canada.

In terms of sport, the country is becoming a leading citizen in a much wider world of human endeavour.

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 You have never been the sort to wallow in self-pity and that's good because you'll need a positive attitude to handle what comes your way today. In the greater scheme of things, it's no big deal.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Let everyone know you desire, and you will increase your chances of getting it. For every rival who might oppose your plans, you have 1,000 friends who can be called on to help.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 It may seem as if you have a mountain to climb but never doubt that you've got what it takes. You're a Gemini and that means you are versatile. You'll find a way to the top.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Today's new moon will boost your energy and self-belief. But if you're wise, you'll need looking ahead and start gearing up to meet the demands you will face in the future.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 Don't take anything too seriously today and don't get angry with people who have a habit of saying one thing and then doing something different. They can't help it. Unlike you, they lack drive and commitment.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 It may concern you that someone who can usually be counted on for support is now questioning your actions, but it's no big deal. Maybe there's a reason why he or she is losing faith.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 You know what needs to be done, so do it. You may be lacking motivation but this is one of those days when, if you push yourself harder, you will breeze through any challenge.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Whatever it is you are trying to keep a secret from people will become public knowledge sooner or later. You might as well come clean. The reaction won't be as bad as you fear.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Make allowances for those who seem reluctant to follow you on your latest adventure — some don't have what it takes. You may have to travel alone at first, but you'll soon pick up new friends.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Make the most of the new moon in the most outgoing area of your chart to get your self noticed. You don't want to appear too aloof today because it might work against your long-term interests.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Money worries seem to be causing you grief but the new moon will show you how to get past your financial troubles. Yes, sacrifices will have to be made, but they're worth it.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 Today's new moon will inspire you to show the world that you are more than just a pretty face. You've always had talent — now you've got real ambition, too. SALLY BROMPTON
